SHERIFF POLLARD

Of Trigg County Figures In a Suicidal Sensation.

Shoots Himself Through the Head
In the Presence of Several People.

Cadiz, Ky., Dec. 2.—A highly sensational tragedy occurred here this morning at 10:35 and the town is greatly excited.

Sheriff N. Butler Pollard shot himself through the head, with sucidal intent, and died about noon.

He was standing in his office transacting business until the very moment of the tragedy. Several persons were in the office and Sheriff Pollard had just made out a check to the Auditor and mailed the letter. Without the movement attracting any attention, he stepped to a part of the room where he was behind the persons present, and a pistol shot rang out.

As the men in the office turned he was in the act of falling, pistol in hand. He had shot himself in the head above the eye and the ball had passed out at the back of his head.

It is not known yet whether the books of the office are out of balance, but there are rumors that a shortage will be found. The books are already undergoing examination, as the new sheriff will take charge of the office January 1st.

Sheriff Pollard was elected in 1897 as a Populist, on a fusion ticket of Populists and Democrats.
He was a middle-aged man who had a family, including a wife, a grown son and two grown daughters. He was a man of moderate means, but owned a farm in the Wallonia neighborhood and some other property. He had the confidence of the public and if anything is found wrong with his accounts, it will be a still greater shock to everybody.

CLARK ACQUITTED.

Jury Declares Him Not Guilty of Miss Waller's Murder.

S. Bruce, Ky., Nov. 30.—In a verdict returned to-day, Dr. W. E.
Clark, of Sturgis, was acquitted of the charge of causing Miss Cora Waller's death by a criminal operation.

On his first trial Dr. Clark was given a ten-year sentence. The appellate court granted a new trial.
He was accused of causing the death of Miss Waller, a belle of Union county, in his office she having been taken there in a delicate condition by her lover, who, when she died in Dr. Clark's chair, killed himself. Dr. Clark insisted from the first that he was innocent, and said he knew he would be acquitted in the end.

DIED OF APPENDICITIS.

Good Woman Passes Away At Home Near Pembroke.

Mrs. J. C. Boxley, whose serious illness was chronicled in the KEN-TUCKIAN of last Tuesday, died at her home near Pembroke Thursday. Death was due to appendicitis.

She was a most estimable woman and her death here caused much sorrow throughout that section.
Services were held at the residence Friday morning and the interment took place in Pembroke Cemetery.

ARRESTED IN MADISONVILLE

On Warrant Sworn Out Here
Charging Larceny.

Jim Davis, col., was arrested in Madisonville Saturday on a warrant sworn out here charging petit larceny. Davis was brought back the same afternoon and lodged in jail. His examining trial will be held before Judge Candler one day this week.

FELAND CONTESTS.

Files Notice Alleging Fraud In the Count.

Wants To Oust Senator-Elect D.
S. Edwards From His Seat.

John Feland on yesterday filed notice of contest against Senator-elect D. S. Edwards and went to Madisonville for the purpose of having the papers served on him.

He charges fraud in the count in Hopkins county, and other irregularities. The majority for Edwards was 4 on the complete official returns and he was issued the certificate of election.

Mr. Feland gives six reasons for his contest. He denies that Edwards received a majority of the votes, asserts that he was himself legally elected by 10 majority, that the certificate to Edwards was illegally issued, that the election board of Hopkins county counted illegal votes for Edwards and failed to count legal votes for himself, that said board delayed the count and last that he received 57 votes in Christian county that were not counted for him.

The last named charge is ridiculous and as the others are on a par with it, there are no just or reasonable grounds for the contest. Everything was straight and regular in the count as reported at the time from both counties. Mr. Feland gained a few votes in this county and his opponent gained a few more in Hopkins.

morning, after an illness of about six weeks, of typhoid fever.

He had been a representative of Johnston Bros., grocers of Louisiville, for several years and South Christian was included in his territory.

all. He is survived by a widow.

According to the assessment recently made by the State Railroad Commission, there will be paid into the treasury of the State within the next thirty days $249,122.47. Of this sum the Louisville and Nashville and Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans Railroad Companies pay the greatest part.

Charges have been filed against George W. Lieberth, recently appointed Collector of Internal Revenue in the Sixth Kentucky district, with the result that the commission has been held up and friends of Collector Comingle says the Collector has a good chance to remain.

There is a proposition to open and exhibit the contents of the great Cahokia mound, opposite St. Louis, on the Illinois side of the Mississippi river, during the Paris Exposition in 1905. It is 99 feet high, 998 feet long and 721 feet wide. It is the greatest known work of the mound builders of historic America. It has never been opened.

The Christmas number of Scribner's Magazine is especially notable for charming fiction and novel and effective art features. The old-fashioned Christmas story does not prevail, but in its place has come the story of bright and cheerful social phases, delicate sentiment and humor. The best work of the best writers is used in these special numbers rather than Christmas tales written to order. In this number appear such authors as Thomas Nelson Page, F. Hopkinson Smith, William Henry Bishop and Arthur Coslett Smith.

Itching Skin

Distress by day and night—That's the complaint of those who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with Eczema or Salt Rheum—and outward applications do not cure. They don't.

The source of the trouble is in the blood—make that pure and this itching, burning, itching skin disease will disappear.

"I was taken with an itching on my arms which proved very disagreeable. I concluded it was salt rheum and bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two days after I began taking it I felt better and it was not long before I was cured. I have never had any skin disease since." Mrs. Ida E. Ward, Cove Point, Md.

The French Society for Woman Suffrage has started a movement to abolish the title of "Mademoiselle" as applied to unmarried women, on the ground that "Monsieur" is applied to both married and unmarried men. The initiated are slow to understand why the French spinsters should wish to be called "Madame," but all titles may look alike in a country where a rose would smell as sweet by any other name.

PRISONER CAPTURED.

Brought Back to Answer Two Indictments For Shooting.

Ollie Brown, col., who escaped from here last February, was arrested at Empire last Thursday night by Deputy Sheriff C. J. Barnes, assisted by mine guard George Lander and returned to prison.

Brown is the negro, who had a bloodless duel with Tollgate Keeper Lawson Smith, near Woods Mill, one night in November, 1900, while attempting to rob the house, it is charged.

Some time after the alleged attempted robbery Brown was captured and placed in jail. On the night of Feb. 19 last, he escaped from prison, having filed the locks from the cell door. After gaining access to the corridor he cried "fire" and when Jailer Williamson opened the outer door the negro fired at him and ran. The officer gave chase and was again fired upon. Both balls went wild of their mark.

Viola Wheeler, a colored woman, who had been living with Brown, was permitted to visit him in jail a few days before his escape and she furnished him with files and a pistol. Later the woman was arrested, tried and convicted of aiding him to escape. She is now in the Eddyville prison.

Brown was indicted last March, both for attempting to kill Smith and shooting at the jailer with intent to kill.

UNION CITY.

Strikers Building a Town in Hopkins County.

Beyond a Few Arrests That Amount To Little, The State Is Doing Nothing.

Madisonville, Ky., Dec. 2.—C. C. Baraaby, vice president of the Twenty-third District United Mine Workers of America, was arrested here Saturday on a warrant charging him with confederating and banding together with others for the unlawful intimidation of non-union miners. Baraaby's bond was fixed at $500 and signed by Representative R. B. Bradley and County Clerk John B. Brasher.

There are no new developments about the union camp at Nortonville. All has been quiet since the re-establishment. No complaints have been made by the neighbors and passing public. The work on the new town, "Union City," of which President Wood spoke in his Central City speech Thursday, has not been commenced further than the union boarding house, which is about ready for occupation.

The boarding house is now completed and was occupied Saturday night by about seventy-five strikers. What action Judge Hall and Gen. Murray will take regarding the situation is not positively known, but it is the opinion that they will proceed at once to forcibly disarm not only the union miners, but the guards at the mines. The guards brought in here from other places will be sent home. The union miners living outside the county will be forced to leave and none but those known to be without homes will be allowed to remain in Nortonville. The state guards will then take charge of all the mining property and the union camps and no man will be allowed to go armed. Any man caught with arms about him will be arrested and imprisoned.

Paragraphs.

Rev. I. R. Hicks Is Not Dead.

Notwithstanding a widely current rumor that the Rev. I. R. Hicks was dead, he never was in better health, and never did a harder and more successful year's work than that just closing. He has just completed his large and splendid Almanac for 1902 and with his staff of able helpers, has brought his journal, Word and Works, justly forward into international reputation. For a quarter of a century Mr. Hicks has grown in reputation and usefulness as the people's astronomer, and forecaster of storms and the charter of coming seasons. Never were his weather forecasts so sought after as now, his timely warning of a serious drought this year having saved the people from loss and suffering. Millions of bushels of wheat were harvested through his advice to plant crops that would mature early. The American people will certainly stand by Prof. Hicks, when it costs them so little and the benefits are so great. His fine Almanac of 200 pages is only 25c, and his splendid family journal is only one dollar a year including the Almanac. Send to Word and Works Pub. Co., 2201 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

PENTECOST MEETING

The Great Evangelist Will Begin Next Sunday.

Union Services to Be Participated In By All Denominations.

Hopkinsville, ever-fortunate in respect of great religious meetings, is to be blessed again. Beginning next Lord's Day afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, sermons will be held twice a day for two weeks at Union Tabernacle, under the auspices of all the Evangelical churches of the town. The preacher in these meetings will be Rev. Geo. F. Pentecost, D. D., of New York.

Concerning Dr. Pentecost, it would be difficult to speak too highly. He is a writer of clearness and power, a lecturer of reputation, a missionary leader known for his abilities and zeal all around the world and a truly great preacher. He will be remembered by our people as having spoken on a Sunday of last year in the Tabernacle on "Christianity in the Twentieth Century."

His impressive words linger in the memories of the thoughtful of our community, a prominent and inspiring possession; our people will welcome him gladly upon his return to us next week.

These meetings are not however for the community only; the people of neighboring towns and communities and counties are cordially invited by the management to participate in them. They will be distinctively evangelistic in their character. They are intended to reach and help the unconverted. Special attention will be given the music for these services. A skillful and practical leader of song will probably be secured.

The Christmas number of The Delicater is about the first of the special Christmas issues. It is a beauty. The cover is a most artistic production, showing a beautifully gowned woman, standing gracefully in a brilliantly lighted salon. Two charming love stories, one by Cyrus Townsend Brady, plenty of advice regarding Christmas gifts, timely pointers on Cookery, Winter-time care of Plants, all the fashions of the day interpreted into simple language, can be found in the Christmas number of the Delicater. It is a splendid magazine, satisfactory inside and out. There is no magazine for women at present published that is more practical in all its pages. As a Xmas gift itself, it bears its own recommendation.

St. Louis' Big Three.

A visitor to St. Louis carries home with him ideas of three big overshadowing enterprises of that city, the Anheuser-Busch Brewery, the Simmons Hardware Co. and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

When St. Louis produces a big thing, it is usually a world beater. On file in the City Register's office in St. Louis, the Post-Dispatch has an affidavit swearing to 168,000 circulation, which it claims is larger than that of any two other St. Louis papers, morning or evening combined.

For more than a year, the Post-Dispatch has been operating two plants, a regular office on Olive street, and another on Market street, three blocks away.

SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL.

Forty-four Additions to South Union Church Membership.

How Do You Know

those baking powders are made from alum?

Their lower price, their unfamiliar names, generally betray them.

But it is not necessary for you to know. You know that Royal does not contain alum, that it makes the best food, that it is pure and healthful. You know that alum powders are unhealthy. This knowledge is sufficient to enable you to protect yourself and your family from alum baking powders and the evil results which are certain to follow their use.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

WARFIELD HOMESTEAD.

Near Casky, Reduced to Ashes—Occupant's Narrow Escape.

The residence of Esq. W. E. Warfield, situated two miles west of Casky, was destroyed by fire Sunday night, together with entire contents.

It is thought that the flames originated from a spark.

The loss is probably $4,000. Esq. Warfield had no insurance either on building or contents.

When the fire was discovered, servants ran into the building and succeeded in getting Esq. Warfield out before the roof fell in.

He has been quite feeble for some time and was unconscious of danger until they rushed in to rescue him.

HAMILTON-TRESCH.

Another Wedding Scheduled For To-morrow Evening.

To-morrow afternoon, at the home of the bride to be, Mr. Jas. T. Hamilton and Miss Lena G. Tresch, will have a few miles west of the city, will be married. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Shemwell.

HOME AND CHILD

Does your horse "feel his oats"? What a difference between the grain-fed and the grass-fed horse! The first strong and full of ginger, the second flabby, weak and tired out before he begins. The feeding makes the difference.

Children are not alike either. One is rosy, bright-eyed, full of life and laughter, another is pale, weak and dull. The feeding again is responsible.

Sickly children need special feeding. They don't "feel their oats". Scott's Emulsion adds just the right richness to their diet. It is like grain to the horse. The child gets new appetite and strong digestion.

Scott's Emulsion is more than food. It is a strong medicine. It rouses up dull children, puts new flesh on thin ones and red blood into pale ones. It makes children grow.

Scott's Emulsion makes ordinary food do its duty.

George Carter, an L. & N. section foreman, was shot in the back and seriously wounded last Wednesday night, just South of Casky.

The bullet entered the back just below the shoulder blade and ranged downward. The ball could not be located. It is not positively known why the shooting was done.

AN ODD MAUSOLEUM

Has Made the Village of Cuttingsville, Vt., Famous.

Twice of Tomb Stands in Marble on the Steps in Life Size—Found in the Structure.

In civilization as well as in savagery man has indulged weird fancies in his ornamentalizations of the sepulchre. Nowhere are the most barbarous times and times much thought was given to embellishments of the graves of beloved dead. Many of the wonders of the world have been sarcophagi.

The pyramids are but repositories for the bones of Egyptian royalty; the tombs of the ancient Greeks and Romans and early Christians' last dreary slumber. Throughout the world, by the side of its arches of triumph, stand the most magnificent and unique sepulchre erected by devoted wealth, at the cost of many thousands of dollars, called Laurel Glen mausoleum.

Throughout that part of New England known as the marble state, the name of Cuttingsville stands only for this mausoleum; the rude hamlet has lost one of its chief attractions, it holds a tomb!

An affluent New Yorker had sought solitude in this picturesque village for several summers, and had built for his use a splendid mansion. But his last 1900-one was taken away by death, and the only consolation remaining was to leave his history in marble. And so Hon. John P. Bowman erected a magnificent memorial to his family, which is now visited by tourists from all parts of the country.

A whole year's time and the labor of 125 men were employed upon this Greek temple, reared amid the green shrubbery in this lovely valley among the mountains which encompass Vermont.

In this great tomb were used 750 tons of granite, 50 tons of marble and

MR. BOWMAN'S TOMB (Its Owner Stands in Marble on the Front Steps in Life Size.)

120,000 bricks. Its dimensions are 18 by 25 feet, and it is 20 feet high. Each block of marble weighs from 5 to 6 tons. The exterior decorations are Greek foliage with laurel frieze. Within the portal is closed by a granite door of one marble slab weighing 6,500 pounds.

But the conspicuous and gruesome feature of this mausoleum is the life-sized statue of Mr. Bowman himself, standing half in hand, with one foot upon the step, about to enter the tomb! He holds a wreath of marble immortelles, and a huge key with which to unlock the chamber of death.

Within, upon pedestals, are busts of himself, his wife, his beautiful daughter, and in the center, his baby, its plump limbs sinking into a cushion, its chubby arms extended to its mother, cold and rigid in unresponsive marble. These were wrought in Italy from finest Parian marble (as was his own figure) and are of immense value.

Two long mirrors give the illusion of vast corridors filled with busts and statues of dazzling whiteness. By this optical illusion 30 halls may be seen. Rich sculptures, bronze traceries and ornaments fill the sepulchre.

A nightly illumination is produced by six bronze candelabra, bearing pyramids of wax, which shed a weird, ghostly light and give a solemn, cathedral atmosphere to this palace of death.

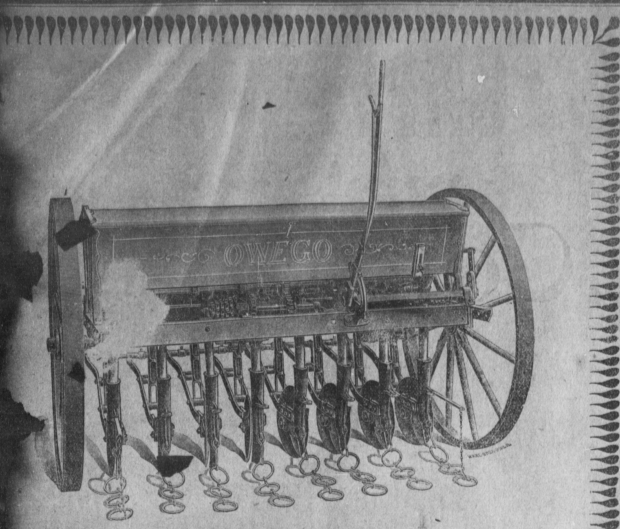

Upon a cooling terrace, conspicuous from all directions, stands this mausoleum, with its owner ever entering its portal, yet never going beyond the threshold. Here a solemn, hushed, hallowed, ghostly light and give a solemn, cathedral atmosphere to this palace of death.

Six trustees guard this legacy and one of their number enjoys the castle once owned by the family. It faces the mortuary, and in it are the elegant furnishings just as they were used by the erratic owner. The tomb was completed before the death of the founder. What melancholy satisfaction he experienced in viewing his own marble image forever ascending the steps that led to the gold clay and colder marble presentations of his wife and children can only be surmised. He has made the village nestled in the mountains of Vermont a place of interest to all who wish to see the shadow of Killington, a point for curiosity seekers and the life and death of a man whose name is now well-known in the annals of the world. Preservation of Eggs.

Rhode Island Agr. Exp. Station, 1901

There are a number of methods of keeping eggs which are of commercial importance. The large surplus which, if thrown upon the market during the season of greatest production, would reduce prices so low as to entail loss to both producer and handler are now well taken care of by cold storage. This process is certainly effectual in keeping the eggs for months in dormant condition. They must be fresh and good when placed in storage, however, for they are certainly not improved by the process. A method of managing eggs practiced by one of the great packing houses of Chicago involves the removal of the contents from the shells and the putting up of the same in cans in liquid form, either mixed or whites and yolks separately, for bakers' purposes. Only the finest of stock is used, and no preservative of any kind is employed. This method is in use on an extensive scale. Another very effective process is that of drying the separate yolks and whites. If thoroughly and properly dried and kept dry, they may be held a very long time before using.

In studying the subject of preservatives the question naturally arises, what are the causes of deterioration, staleness, mustiness and decomposition? The answer is simple enough. Ferments or germs cause changes in the contents of the eggs, and chemical changes follow that result in the formation of liquid or gaseous compounds, which if continued, result finally in the offensive or "rotten" egg. To preserve the egg the germs must be destroyed, kept dormant, or their growth prevented in some way. In most methods of preserving eggs it is desirable to exclude or sterilize the air, which may act as a conveyor of both germs and oxygen to the eggs. Fresh, fertile eggs, even after several days' subjection to the temperature of incubation, are found to have changed but slightly, and may be used for culinary purposes. A fertile egg, which has been incubated even for a few hours, so that the chick embryo has started to grow and has then by any means died, soon decomposes under ordinary conditions. Among numerous methods of preserving, two were found most satisfactory.

In each test, unless otherwise stated, fresh eggs, carefully gathered and cautiously handled were used. When the preservative was in powdered form, clean, dry, unwashed eggs were used. When a liquid preservative was employed, the eggs were, unless otherwise noted, previously carefully washed in clean water. Except in a few cases the receptacles used for holding the eggs were stone jars, each six and one-half inches in diameter and seven inches in height and provided with stone-ware covers. For the parallel tests, unless otherwise stated, twenty eggs were selected, as uniform as possible in size, color of shell, and age; laid by fowls of one breed, treated alike as to food, range, care and management. During the trials the stone jars containing the eggs remained undisturbed upon the floor of a cellar closet where the temperature ranged from 62 to 67 degrees F. in summer. The duration of trials was extended beyond the length of time usually required, in order to most thoroughly test the various methods employed. The two best methods are given in detail:

WATER GLASS (SILICATE OF SODA.)
 Method—The water glass, or soluble glass, is obtainable of druggists, and costs from forty to sixty cents per gallon. That used in the tests was of 1.12 specific gravity, which in the first series of tests was diluted with distilled water to a ten per cent.

pints of boiled water.)
 On May 18, 1899, twenty eggs of Leghorn fowls, laid during the five days from the 12th to 16th of May, were carefully washed with water and placed in a stone jar. The ten per cent. solution of water glass was poured over the eggs until they were completely covered by the liquid. The covered jar was placed on the floor of the cellar closet and left untouched until the end of the test, April 4, 1900. Result: Good, 100 per cent.; bad, 0 per cent.

On opening the jar the water glass was found to have formed a white, gelatinous precipitate, which adhered more or less closely to the eggs. The shells of the eggs were very clean, owing to the alkaline nature of the solution; the air cells were not enlarged. Examination showed the whites of the eggs to be clear, but not so limited as those of fresh eggs. The yolks appeared normal in color and condition. The taste of the eggs was slightly flat, or at least not perfectly fresh. The eggs had kept well for a period of ten months and seventeen days, and proved to be suitable for culinary use.

LIME WATER AND SALT BRINE.

Method—One pound of quick lime and one-half pound of table salt were thoroughly mixed with four quarts of boiled water. After slaking and settling, the clear solution was drawn off for use in the test. On May 18, '99, twenty Leghorn eggs, laid during the five days, May 12th to 16th, were washed and placed in a stone jar, and the solution of lime and salt poured over them until all the eggs were fully surrounded and covered by the liquid. Result: Good, 100 per cent.; bad, 0 per cent.

This jar was opened May 30, 1900. The surface of the liquid was crusted and considerable silt had settled to the bottom of the jar. The shells of the eggs which were sunken in this silt appeared very fresh. The exteriors of the shells were clean and clear. The air cells were not increased in size. The whites and yolks were normal in appearance. The whites beat up nicely, but had a slightly saline taste. Several used as dropped eggs appeared to be nice, but had a slightly sharp taste. This old-fashioned method of preserving eggs is thus again proved effective.

SUMMARY.

Of the different methods tested in this series of experiments, the old way of using slaked lime and salt brine proved to be very effectual, and has also the advantage of being inexpensive. It is also not difficult to practice. For a period of a few weeks only, smearing the eggs with vaseline may prove an effective method of preservation. In the place of vaseline almost any clean, greasy substance may be used. For a period of a few months only, packing in dry table salt is worthy of recommendation. Of all the substances experimented with, the water glass solution proved most worthy of recommendation. The fourth series of experiments showed that the water glass solution could be reduced to three per cent. and still retain its preserving quality. Waterglass can be obtained of druggists at from forty to sixty cents per gallon. It is easily manipulated and the solution may be repeatedly used. The eggs should be completely immersed in the solution, and if any eggs float, an inner cover which will sink them below the surface of the liquid should be used. In several tests where the eggs were placed in stone jars inverted saucers were used for this purpose. The expense for the water glass at sixty cents per gallon would amount to about two-thirds of a cent per dozen eggs. This does not include the expense of the jar or other receptacle, which may be of stone-ware, glass or wood.

ONE LEAD PENCIL.

Could Fill an Entire Newspaper with Reading Matter.

"I have been figuring on the possibilities of a lead pencil," said a young man who has a penchant for the statistical side of things, according to the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "and you would really be surprised to know what a man can do with one lead pencil! How many words are there in a lead pencil? How many columns of newspaper matter? How many pages of a book of the average size? How many poems, essays, sermons and things of that sort may one find in the lead of an ordinary pencil? Really, these questions are not easily answered, but one may arrive at a reasonable approximation by doing a little sum in arithmetic. In the first place, the average pencil is seven inches long. The average diameter of the pencil used by men who write a good deal is one-twelfth of an inch. Considering the wood and lead, the point of a pencil measures about one-half of an inch, one-quarter of an inch representing the lead portion. Allowing for breaks and scratches, one-quarter of an inch of lead will write two columns of matter for the ordinary newspaper, assuming that the pencil is not of the extremely soft character. There are about 1,800 words in a full column of a newspaper of the average size. Two columns would represent 3,600 words. So we get this number of words out of one-quarter of an inch of lead. Out of an inch of lead we would get four times 3,600, 14,400 words. Out of seven inches we would get 100,800 words. So far as the number of words are concerned we have in this result the possibilities of the lead pencil. Allowing 1,800 words to the column this would mean 56 columns of solid matter, or an eight-page paper of the seven-column width. Two columns a day is a good average for a reporter. In order to grind out 56 columns of solid matter it would require on this basis, the reportorial energies of 28 men. In other words, there is enough lead in a pencil seven inches long to keep 28 men busy for the average time put in by newspaper writers in one day. This would mean that one pencil, with due care and attention, and without any unnecessary waste, ought to do one man nearly a month. A man can buy a lead pencil for five cents. The average price paid for the best newspapers of the country for accepted matter is five dollars a column. If one pencil will write 56 columns of matter, it is possible for a newspaper writer to earn, on an investment of five cents, $280. From this it would seem that there is money in a lead pencil, and on the face of it it looks like one of the very best investments one could make, and yet there are men in the business who look at the matter from another standpoint, for instead of being a prolific producer of wealth, the pencil generally leaves one haunted by the ironies of poverty."

SUM OF $5,000

Asked as Damages Against Merchant at Herndon.

Allen Thurmond Coleman, by his next best friend, C. L. Coleman, has filed suit in the Circuit Court against W. R. Harris for $5,000 damages.

It is alleged that Harris, in a certain conversation October 13th last, spoke falsely and maliciously of the plaintiff, accusing him of the larceny of some money. The plaintiff states that defendant said:

"I am sorry to tell you, but Allen undoubtedly stole $3.50 from me out of a pot on the top shelf of my store."

The petition further states that Harris has since that time made a similar statement to various persons.

Young Coleman has always borne a good reputation and belongs to one of the best families in South Christian.

Mr. Harris is a merchant at Herndon and owns considerable property in that place.

WHO ARE THEY?

Eloping Couple Giving Hopkinsville As Their Home.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 30.—Mr. Claud Hall and Miss Jennie Forester, of Hopkinsville, Ky., came here today to be married. The Deputy Circuit Clerk Guild C. Foster informed Hall that under the law he could not issue him a license as the girl lived in Kentucky. Hall replied that he had a poor opinion of the law. The Deputy Clerk said the people of Indiana had about the same opinion of Kentucky laws, whereupon Hall pulled a pistol from his hip pocket, and, pointing it at Foster, said:

"This is what we use to make people respect our laws."

A Deputy Sheriff, who was standing near, pulled Hall under arrest. He was taken before a Justice, and after being disarmed and given a severe lecture, was permitted to go. He went back to the court-house, and, after kissing his girl, the two walked off arm and arm.

Hall is one of the guards at the St. Bernard Coal Co., at Earlington, Ky. He returned home with his girl tonight. Miss Forester is a beautiful girl, 19 years old and says she has loved Hall from childhood.

The parties are not known in Hopkinsville. They probably hailed from Hopkins county.
